

Research Interests:

Medieval religion

Medieval military culture

Medieval England and France

Craig M Nakashian, Ph.D.

7101 University Avenue ■ Texarkana, TX 75503 ■ 903.223.3136 ■ cnakashian@tamut.edu

Dean and Professor; August 2010 – Present Texas A&M University-Texarkana

Recently Taught Courses (Past 2 Years)

- IS 1100- University Foundations
 - IS 1300- The Human Experience
 - HUMA 1301- Introduction to Humanities
 - HIST 2321- World Civilization I
 - HIST 525- The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire
 - HIST 570- Popes, Paupers, and Heretics
-

Education

University of Rochester; Rochester, NY
Ph.D in History (2010)

Durham University; Durham, England
MA in Medieval History (2001)

Western New England University; Springfield, MA
BA in History (2000)

Western New England University; Springfield, MA
BA in Government (2000)

Academic Experience

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY- TEXARKANA; Texarkana, TX

Dean, 2024 to Present

Professor, 2022 to Present; Associate Professor, 2016-2022; Assistant Professor, 2010-2016

Southeast Missouri State University; Cape Girardeau, MO

Visiting Instructor of History, 2009-2010

Syracuse University; Syracuse, NY

Part-Time/Half-Time Professor, 2006-2009

Significant Professional Publications (Past 5 Years)

Co-editor, The Journal of Medieval Military History: Urban Communities and War in the Middle Ages 23 (2025)

Author, "Obligation and Opportunity: Urban Military Service in Medieval England", The Journal of Medieval Military History: Urban Communities and War in the Middle Ages 23 (2025), 21-39

Author/Editor, "Christianity and Warfare in the Medieval West", The Oxford Bibliography in Military History (2023)